Pacific Poultry Breeders Show

Roseville, California

January 26th-28th, 2002

Judge: Paul Monteith (not yet confirmed)

Mark your calendars! Both shows have the potential for very large Cochin numbers. What we need now is for all of you that plan to attend (and even if you don't plan to attend) to sponsor additional awards and specials. The host clubs can only do so much, but it's the awards offered by individuals, and the extra effort involved, that make these meets memorable. The awards don't have to be trophies, or money, they can be just about anything. I hope to have some more details on awards in the next newsletter, so let me know what you are offering, but more importantly, let the respective show secretaries know so that they can include the award in their show catalogs! Bob Anderson has already put up quite an award for the Champion Bantam out at the Roseville Show (see page 6 for more details). Also note that Jay Smith will be collecting all additional awards for the show, for distribution.

The Red Cochin Bantam

By George A. McCarley
(Reprinted from the 1952 ABA Yearbook)

First, my thanks for the invitation for our secretary for the opportunity to discuss the Red Cochin Bantam and second, to apologize to the general bantam loving public for the poor attempt I shall make to discuss this idea. As I start this article, it seems that I am not capable of such a task. When one stops to think of trying to describe something that no definite pattern has been laid out for, it is like a builder trying to describe a building that no blue print has been drawn for. I would like to bring to attention before going into detail, that any idea or thought expressed here after are mine and open for discussion.

To me, a good Red Cochin is a joy to behold. The first thing naturally one would think of in breeding would be type; good feathers, plenty of them and a loose fluffy nature, deep breast, body not too close to ground, neat wing fold with head and tail carried almost on an even keel, body being tilted slightly forward. This to my way of thinking would be type that no one would be ashamed of. Never sacrifice type for color. This would be a sad mistake. So after we have our type, color comes next. I definitely believe that color is a real factor to offspring. I will probably draw some crossfire here in my article as I state that I think that a good Red can only come from a Black- Buff combination. I know some breeders will argue on adding Partridge blood. There are lots of Partridge males being used in trying to perfect the Red but I will not agree that this is a wise idea. You will see some good Reds that have Partridge origin, but generally on close examination one will find faint tracings on back and breast feathers as of barring on the Partridge.

Now as to color. My ideal color is the same as the Rhode Island Red. By this red, I mean one that is a clear red and not a reddish brown. Undercolor should show a good color of red on down to the skin. White or buff undercolor is undesirable. The quill of the feather must be red also and not orange or buff. There should be not patches of black or brown feathers on shawl or body. I think that maybe a few black feathers in wing or tail would be permissible. I have talked to some breeders on this matter and they say that the black in wings and tail should be a must. My opinion on this is no. A top quality Red Cochin should be solid red. Of course this is only my opinion. In years to come, I think that they will be admitted to the Standard. They should be. They have come a long way and by the help of true Cochin Fanciers, he (the Red Cochin) will take his place beside the other varieties. I know that there are many breeders who will be willing to put their time and patience with this fellow and help him earn the place he so rightly deserves.

My Reds are a cross. Their origin being a Black Cochin cock crossed over a deep Buff Cochin hen. From this start it has been a program of crossing back the best to the best over a period of a good many years. This requires a lot of time and patience. One generally does not get what he expects when cross breeding. The larger percentage of ours now come Red, but every year we still get some almost black and a few golden buff. Of course these run in a low percentage. In our breeding program we take our very best reds every year for our breeders. As stated before, stick to that color if you still hold type. This has been our program since we have been breeding Reds. It will be our program in years to come. Regardless of what one's program is, there will always come off-colors. I think that this is to teach us that there is a Master Breeder over us all who shows us sometimes how weak we are when we try to figure above the law of average.

One might ask the question of why I am so sure that a solid Red can be bred and still hold type. My answer is: I have tried it and know it can be done.

CI Editor's note: Some interesting points in Mr. McCarley's article. Particularly when he states that in breeding you never sacrifice type for color. Red Cochin Bantams were admitted to the Bantam Standard and the color description is not very inclusive or descriptive. I would venture to state that I don't think we want our Red Cochins to be as dark as the deep red called for in Rhode Island Reds. We have several members working on this variety and it would be nice to see a few more champion the Red Cochin cause.

Cochins International Items of Interest:

Club Patches: We currently have about one dozen club patches left. The ones that are left look like the club logo on the cover. They are about 4 inches in diameter. If you would like one of these let me know. They are $5.00 and I have them, so if you send me a check made out to Cochins International I will get it in the mail to you. By the next newsletter I hope to have a supplier, price quote and some details for our new patches in four different varieties. Black, Buff, White, and Blue. Parti-colored varieties are too hard to replicate in embroidery.

Club Dues: It was suggested that the membership be given a price break for multiple year renewals. This is being looked at and will be further discussed in the next newsletter.

Awards: Open to ideas here! We are working on an additional Master Breeder's Award. Something along the lines of a Judges coat/smock.

With the increased funds that the dues increase created, we should be able to offer some additional awards at our National meets. Not your standard plaques or trophies but something classy signifying this level win. Look for more info on both items in the next newsletter.

Cochins to be Auctioned off: In the last newsletter you may recall that we had several members volunteer pairs of Cochins to be auctioned off to raise money for the club. I will have exact details and information, as well as what is to be auctioned in the next edition of our Newsletter. - TER

Northeast I District Update:

Well, its early February and I am right into the hatching time for myself. I have about 45 chicks out so far a little bit of everything as far as colors go. I am currently raising 11 variety's of bantams and 4 variety's of large fowl. My feed bill is showing the additional numbers and I truly believe I spend more on chicken feed then human food. But oh well you can't put a price on the smiles I get from my daughter as she takes a new chick out of the incubator and has to kiss each one, its priceless. The winter here so far hasn't been then bad but I am still looking forward to mowing lawn instead of shoveling snow.

The District Meet for my district was held at the first Yankee Classic on the weekend of October 22nd. There were a total of 91 bantam cochins and roughly 15 large fowl. The members here in Northeast District 1 were a great support for this meet over $200 was donated for cash awards. A personal thanks goes out to everyone from myself who donated I would list each person but seems repetitious so you know who you are and thanks a lot. The top prize went to Bill Ziehm on a buff cockerel bantam which was best of breed. Here again I could go through a list each individual winner but that information is also in the show report. Congratulations again goes to Bill and thanks again to everyone who supported this first show in memory of Alex Duffy. There were 10 different variety's represented at this show in the bantams and 4 in the large fowl.

Just last month we had a regional meet tha. was held in Springfield, Massachusetts. The big winners there were Tom and Kathy Roebuck Sr. with BB and Best featherleg and Reserve Bantam of the Show with a black bantam hen and also to William West who had Champion Asiatic with a Buff Cockerel. There were over 100 bantams represented and 28 large fowl. Congratulations also goes to these two winners. I am sending out this years meets next weekend I hope. I am placing the District meet in New Hampshire at the Deerfield show. This will be a little more reasonable driving distance for the fellow members way up North. I hope I can count on the members to support this show with a great turn out. The show is in the fall. I will be sending out notices to the members for donations again for this district meet. We have over 30 members in this district if everyone contributes $5 we can have some nice awards. I will be sending them out earlier then before in order to get plaques or trophies instead of cash but this is going to be up to you guys as members. In my request I am going to have you chose how you want the money to go and do it the old democratic way and vote on it.

I hope everyone has a great hatch and a successful spring season. I look forward to seeing all of you out on the show circuit. As I have said before please voice any concerns you might have with the district or the club and I will try to answer them to the best of my ability.

Until next time take care,

Jamie

Southeast District Update:

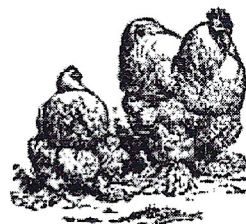

I would like to introduce myself to those who do not know me. My name is John Thyssen and I am the new District Director for the Southeast District.

I started with Cochins back in 1955. I was walking through the small town of De Pere, Wisconsin and spotted these very unusual chickens in the yard of the veterinarian. I had only been around Leghorns of which we normally had a good size flock for our own use and to sell the eggs. I went to the door and inquired, what are those chickens and where did you get them. He told me Gene Halbach and he lived down south from us. I got the directions and went to Gene Halbach's place and came home with Cochin bantams and Japanese. I couldn't afford really good ones as I just graduated from High School, but I loved every one of them. Shortly after that, I moved to Milwaukee and three years later to Los Angeles. I had no chickens there as I lived in the City. Then in approx 1974 I acquired some Standard Cochins from Arthur Manley, Buffs and Partridge. I showed the Buffs at the Cow Palace in San Francisco and went 1st and 2nd in a class in the teens. I was hooked. I then acquired some bantams in most colors. I also had a Super Grand Champion Non-bearded Silkie at the time. I then was showing dogs professionally and was on the road quite a bit of the time. Then the big D, divorce. I sold my property and had to sell the birds.

I am now retired mostly and am not going to give my birds up again. I am breeding Standard Cochins in Black, Blue, Mottled and adding Brown Red this year. I also raise Standard Polish in WC Black, WC Blue and Bearded Buff Laced. Quite different personalities on the two breeds. My Polish are beautiful, but my love goes with the Cochins. I pick one up and it's my old Teddy Bear from childhood.

If anyone has any suggestions as what should be done in the Southeast District, feel free to Email me or phone me. If you have any questions, I would suggest you go to the Forum in the Cochins International Website. That way, the whole membership will get to answer, and I know you will get some great help.

Northeast II District Update:

It is with much regret that I must announce that this will be my last communication to the members of Northeast II District as your District Director. As of March 14th my family and I relocated to Duluth, GA to accept a new job and a new start on life. Rich Barczewski of Smyrna, DE has graciously offered to complete my term for me. Rich will do an excellent job as director and most of you will probably thank me for leaving as a result of the outstanding job he will do! The Barczewski's (Rich and his children Stephen, Adam and Sara) are currently raising large partridge Cochins as well as black bantams. In addition to this, they raise outstanding large speckled Sussex and bantam white-crested black Polish.

Before leaving Delaware I was able to place the following meets in the Northeast II District for the upcoming year. They are as follows...

Westmoreland Poultry Club	Greensburg, PA	April 21, 2001	Regional Meet
Sussex Co. Poultry Fanciers	Sussex, NJ	April 28-29, 2001	Regional Meet
Blue Ridge Poultry Club	Galax, VA	April 28, 2001	Regional Meet
Central PA Avian Club	Bloomsburg, PA	May 5-6, 2001	Regional Meet
Shenandoah Valley Poul. Club	Woodstock, VA	May 26, 2001	Regional Meet
Central PA Avian Club	Bloomsburg, PA	Oct. 20-21, 2001	Regional Meet
Blue Ridge Poultry Club	Galax, VA	Oct. 27, 2001	Regional Meet
York Co. Poultry Fanciers	York, PA	Oct. 27-28, 2001	Regional Meet
Maryland St. Poultry Fanciers	Frederick, MD	Nov. 3-4, 2001	District Meet
VA Poultry Breeders Assoc.	Richmond, VA	Nov. 17-18, 2001	National Meet

The following meets have already taken place in District 2 for 2001....

Susquehanna Poultry Club	Rising Sun, MD	March 18, 2001	Regional Meet
Delmarva Poultry Fanciers	Harrington, DE	April 8, 2001	Regional Meet

As you will see above the Eastern Cochin National for 2001 is headed to our district (Richmond, VA) on November 17 & 18. Tommy Stanley and the entire Virginia Poultry Breeder's Association will do an excellent job hosting our National in Richmond, VA. We always have a good representation of Cochins in Richmond from several areas of the North and Southeast. Exhibitors such as Jamie Matts, Bill Ziehm, Bill West and Charles Anderson usually make the trip South to Richmond each year. I am hoping we will attract members from the Midwest and West as well. I believe this will be a National Meet to remember for years to come.

Please also note that your District Meet has been placed with the Maryland State Poultry Fanciers Association in Frederick, MD on November 3 & 4. This meet has been placed in honor of the late Dr. Charles Wabeck (poultry judge and member of the MSPFA). Northeast II member, Kay St. Amour, is the show secretary.

I can not express enough how much I have enjoyed serving as your director and getting to know our various members within the club from all areas. Our organization is strong and our breed is well recognized. I am very proud to have served the Northeast II District and to be a member of Cochins International.

If any of you have any questions regarding the above meets or need to reach me I can be contacted during the day at 678-638-3649. I wish all of you well and I look forward to seeing you at future shows.

Best wishes to all of you.

Sincere regards,

William D. Lewis

Attention!!! Attention!!! Attention!!!

If you have not renewed your membership for 2001, this is the last newsletter you will receive. We realize that not everyone will renew their memberships, for one reason or another, but we really want to keep as many of our current members as possible. That's what keeps our club strong. The mailing labels contain the year that your dues expire. If your mailing label reads 12/00 and I have highlighted it, then it is time to renew. We also understand that things like this slip people's minds sometimes. Understandable in today's hectic world! Send in those dues and don't miss a newsletter! - TER

North Central District Update:

Hello to everyone from the Great Lakes State. I hope everyone is well under way in their hatching season, I am just starting to get some decent hatches out. I would like to take this time to thank the members from my district for selecting me as their director, and if any of you have any questions or concerns PLEASE feel free to contact me, I will do my best to help you.

Our District meet was held in Wapakoneta, Ohio. This was also the APA Semi Annual. Best Bantam Cochin and Reserve Featherleg was a Mottled pullet by Matt McCammon, Champion Large Cochin and Reserve Asiatic was a Black pullet by David West. There was a little over 100 Bantams and 20 Large Fowl. I saw some of the FINEST cochin bantams I have seen in along time at this show. The quality of the less popular varieties was SUPER, the mottleds, blues, buffs; all were GREAT!!

I try to get to as many shows a year as I can, and you will always find me in the cochin aisle talking cochin, so please look me up and introduce yourself. I look forward to meeting as many of you as I can. I tentatively plan on being at Greenville, Ohio, Bloomington, Indiana, Centreville, Michigan and Lucasville, Ohio and from there on I'm not sure, at least until the fall season.

Sincerely,

David West

Pacific District Update:

The 2001 Western National Meet of Cochins International has been awarded to the Pacific Poultry Breeders Show which will be held January 26-28, 2002 in Roseville, California. The judge requested for the Cochins is Paul Monteith of Ontario, Canada.

For those of you who would like to show but cannot attend, Lowell Sherman will be arranging for pick up of birds that are flown in. He can be reached at (916) 771-0500 from 8 am to 4:30 pm Pacific Daylight Time at Haight Nursery.

One of our California members, Jay Smith of Berkeley, has agreed to receive & distribute special awards for the show. You can support your favorite varieties of Cochin by sending special awards to Jay at 1623 9th St., Berkeley, CA 94710. The deadline for submission of awards is 10/31/01 and sooner would be better. I will be donating the framed original paintings of the Brown Red Cochin Bantams from the Standard of Perfection for the Champion Cochin Bantam.

I will make sure that the show secretary has a current membership list, so each of you should automatically receive a premium list. If I can offer any additional information, please contact me directly.

Respectfully,

Bob Anderson

West Central District Update:

Greetings!

Spring is coming very slowly in the West Central District, with only one 70 degree day so far here in April, and only a week left to go. I believe that the chicks will be half grown before they know what green grass looks like. I have about 75 Large Buff Cochins hatched and about the same amount of Bantam Buff Cochins so I should have a few to select from in 2001.

I've been working on getting meets placed for 2001 and have some placed, but would like to place more of course. So far for 2001 I have meets placed at:

United Poultry Fanciers	Regional Meet
North Dakota State Fair	Regional Meet
South Dakota State Fair	Regional Meet
North Iowa Poultry Assn	Regional Meet
RBR Poultry Club	Regional Meet
Nebraska State Poultry Assn	District Meet
Minnesota State Poultry Assn	Regional Meet
Minnesota State Fair	Regional Meet

I'm working on placing meets for Montana and Wyoming at the present time. Any club in the West Central District wishing to host a meet please contact me so we can get a meet for your club.

Until next time. Sincerely,

Mark A. Peterson

Southwest District Update:

It is a beautiful day here in Mid Missouri about 80 degrees, winding blowing as usual. We have the incubator full and 2 young batches out in small brooder houses. Finally able to turn the larger chickens out to enjoy the grass.

We just had our Missouri State Poultry Association Show at Sedalia, MO, April 21 & 22, 2001. We had a great show with 808 birds entered, and 125 of those were Cochins by 8 different exhibitors. The largest class ever here. The kids are beginning to get interested in showing Cochins now. The Champion Featherleg and Reserve Featherleg went to a Blue Cochin hen and a White Cochin hen, of which I am proud to say was ours. We also had Frizzle's entered in the show. There was a lot of competition and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves.

Please let me know about your shows early so I can get a meet for you as soon as possible. Have a great summer and good luck on hatching. Hope you all have lots of WINNERS!

Editor's Notes:

Spring greetings to you all! As most of you probably are aware this issue of the newsletter is late in arriving because I have been deployed with the Marines to the scenic desert of Saudi Arabia. For those of you who wrote me via email while I was over there, I thank you. It always makes the time away from home more bearable when you can keep in touch with friends and family. Special thanks to Jamie Matts for sharing all the photos and breeding updates!

OUR club is continuing to gain new members. This is definitely good to see! I want to remind everybody that this club is only as good as WE make it. I have said this before, but it is important and needs to be stressed. If you are at a show and there are Cochin Exhibitors who are not members of OUR club, approach them and let them know about US. Every one of you are ambassadors for Cochins International. Let them know how to join and what OUR club has to offer. This is how WE will continue to grow in numbers and strength. You will notice that I capitalized some words in this paragraph. Important? I think so!

As I have been talking with many of you this spring, it appears to be a pretty good hatching season thus far. Bill Ziehm has a number of Birchen and Brown Red Bantams out, as well as some Buffs. Jamie Matts has numbers too high to count in chicks so far this spring. I am exaggerating, but he does have a bunch out. Larry and Mark Peterson are already finished hatching, and John Thyssen is having good success, as well as many others. Everyone will have plenty to choose from for those fall shows!

One of the most encouraging things from a breed standpoint is the growing enthusiasm and interest in the Large Cochins. For several years we have heard only a few names showing and winning with the Large Cochins. Part of the reason for this was a lack of the Big Cochin Breeders, the other part being that those few names have well-established strains and are hard to beat. I am speaking of the Ray Watfords, Bob Andersons, Larry and Mark Petersons and the Bill Wests of the Cochin Fancy. But there is a growing number of new names breeding the "Big Ones" and winning with them. What is even more encouraging is that we have seen an increase in the number of varieties as well; large Silver Laced, Golden Laced, Brown Red, Mottled, Blue, Red, and Barred to name a few. There are many factors that can be attributed to the drop in popularity of the Large Cochins, but it is good for our breed to see names like John Thyssen, Tom and Pat Rice, Jamie Matts, Ronna Lefebber, John Barca, Jay Smith, Bernice MacLaren and Steve Harper (Mac-Harp), Judy McAlexander, Rich Barczewski and others finding themselves in the winner's circle at many shows. What a sight to see if we could get a future show with upwards of 200 Large Cochin entries. That is an attainable goal, and something that any judge worth his weight would love to be a part of.

Likewise, we are seeing different varieties in the Bantams picking up in popularity and doing well at the shows. Blue and Mottled are the most recent big winners with a couple of big wins by Barred Bantams as well.

The increase in different varieties in both the Large Fowl and Bantam Cochins tells me that Cochins are regaining their popularity. That can mean only good things for our club and our Breed.

You will find a new item in this newsletter. The idea for the "Pulletzer" Prize winning recipes area is courtesy of Kathy Roebuck and we will be looking for input from all of you for this one. Make sure to check out the recipe and details on page 11. I think we might be able to compile all the "winning" recipes into a cookbook sometime in the future and offer it as a fundraiser for the club. We'll see!

I have had an interesting time with this particular newsletter. My hard drive crashed and I lost all of my back newsletters. You would think that I would know better, but apparently not. I have been rebuilding as I go along and hopefully I haven't missed anything! Suffice it to say that I will be backing up my files on removable disks, to avoid future catastrophes!

That's all I have for now. Thanks for your patience with the late delivery of this newsletter but it could not be avoided. Happy hatching and enjoy the spring season!

Cochins Rule!

National Meet Placement Information Anyone?

Dennis sent me a breakdown of where we have had our past Nationals and where they are slated to be in the future so I thought I would share this with everyone. Now is the time to start thinking about which shows in your respective districts might make good candidates to host our Nationals. Put the bug in the Show Secretary's ear early and promote our club!

If there are any questions about the rotation feel free to contact Dennis (his email address and phone number are on page 2).

We try to select the host club that offers the most accommodations for our breed (i.e., single decked cages, Cochins judged first, our choice of judges from their slate of judges, and whatever monetary/physical awards they may offer). However, shows today are more and more expensive to run, so that is where we as a breed club come in. It is up to all of us to make the extra effort and offer breed specials at these shows. It doesn't have to be money, or a trophy. It can be a nice set of soup bowls. The point is that we are putting the extra effort into making our Nationals a success!

Letter to the Editor:

Hi Tom,

Just wanted to drop you a note of thanks for the cochin bantam contacts. I recently had the most fun in buying a pair of black cochin bantams from Jamie Matts. His birds are so beautiful and personable! The cockerel is like a curious and friendly puppy dog. Our almost three year old son is in heaven with his bantams and the chores he's taking on. Jamie has spoiled me with the excellent health and quality of his birds.

Cochins International has been great for us in terms of the contacts and it's forum. We're going to a poultry show on the 7th here in California so will meet some west coast folks too. You take care and enjoy your soon to be trip back to the USA!!! Every time Jamie emailed me, he said it was snowing in New York and 20 degrees. I'm not sure where you reside, but spring should be in the east by the time you get back.

Go Cochins!

Letter to the Editor:

Is There a Cure?

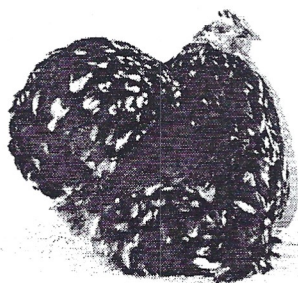

I have had a few nice birds in the past come down with a puzzling ailment that I cannot seem to cure. I notice the first day or two that they are not interested in eating. The they begin to just stand all slumped over. They turn pail in the face and seem as if it is painful to even move. These symptoms are common for several avian diseases, I know. However, on about the third day, they begin to drink uncontrollably. Often they spill most of each gulp down their front, as cochins are known to do. On this same day, they will develop a greenish discharge from the behind that sometimes turns a pinkish clear shade. At this stage it is nearly impossible to save them. I have noticed that this can last for several days in some birds until I mercifully end their misery. Other times, these symptoms last for only a couple of days before eminent death.

Just recently I brought a pullet back home from her first show. She won Best of Breed and Champion Featherleg. She was laying well and in good condition. Within a week, she was drinking too much and discharging from behind. She never completely stopped eating, and I believed this is what saved her. As of this writing, she is doing better and will eat greens and some Layena each day. I gave her 1cc of Tylan 50 for two days straight because this is the only thing I had around that I thought might do her some good. I have given others the same medicine, but never in this large a dose. Maybe this is what saved her, or maybe she didn't have the same ailment as the others.

If anyone has any experience with the problems I have mentioned, please E-mail me or send a response for Tom to put in future newsletters. I know other breeders have had this problem in the past. I thank you for your helpful ideas and best of luck with all your young cochins!

Quick note: At the time of publishing I am in receipt of the following show reports that are not listed in this newsletter. Likewise the Master Breeder points earned at these shows are not included in this issue. They will be included in the next newsletter. We already had five pages of show reports and I thought that was enough for one newsletter. Those are the toughest part of putting this thing together!

Website Update: I have given our Club Website a bit of a new look, and added the "Cochin Forum" message board. We even have our own guest book for visitors to sign. The site is generating a good bit of interest and I am constantly answering questions regarding Cochins of one variety or another. I also got permission from Diane Jacky to use her Cochin Artwork on our website. The Buff Bantams on page 1 are courtesy of Diane. There is a link to her website on our homepage. I have more work to do on our site but time is not always on my side. Check it out at: <http://www.geocities.com/cochinman2005/>

Letter to the editor:

Dear Tom,

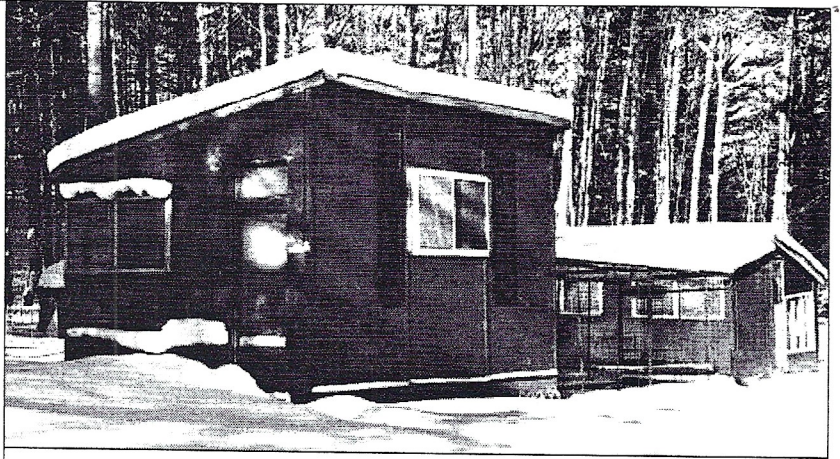

Just a few lines to express my appreciation for your interest you expressed by attending the Eastern National on September 24th, 2000, in Fergus, Ontario, and the meeting held in conjunction with the show.

After reading Terry Ingram's great article on Perfect Bird Pens, I felt compelled to write and submit pictures outlining my type of set up and related problems. Geographically, I am located on the eastern shores of Lake Ontario. My birds are housed in separated buildings located in a heavily wooded area. Foxes, Raccoons, and several species of birds of prey are a year round concern. During the severe cold winter months keeping the combs of my male birds from getting damaged due to frostbite provides a great challenge. Presently I am using a mixture of Vaseline and cream to protect the combs. We'll see once the winter is over, how it worked. To protect the birds from the cold cement floor, I use a combination of dry straw, mixed with dry wood shavings. This keeps the floor space warm. In the spring, the straw, shavings and birds droppings make a great mixture for any compost pile. The plastic water fountains are protected from freezing by using a light bulb type heater. During spring and summer I am using self-standing breeding pens and rotate the male birds. My Blue Cochins are selected and mated by the basic rule of Mendel's Law. Based on a careful mating and breeding program my best Blue Cochins have been produced by mating Blue to Blue, to get a clear base color with darker lacing. Last year however, I noticed that my male birds exhibited a little rust or brass color in the neck hackle feathers. I am inclined to use Splash-White birds in this year's breeding.

The Mottled color pattern is a recent addition to my pens. Currently, I am breeding straight Mottled to Mottled to obtain an ideal exhibition and breeding foundation. One of the most asked questions at shows or meetings has to be "Is your line of birds a male line or a female line?" Meaning, does your line produce top male or top female birds? I have to say without hesitation, my line is definitely a female line.

Mottled Cochins in their Winter pen.

Chicken Buildings with closed in runs.

Spring and Summer breeding pens.

This brings up the question "Why?" Perhaps some of our more seasoned and experienced breeders could send Tom a few lines outlining why. I will submit a write-up in time for the next newsletter on the subject "Transportation of Birds."

Black Cochins Over a Period of Twenty-five Years

By Judge R. Penn Krum, Stafford, Kansas
(Reprinted from the 1937 ABA Yearbook)

I have been asked to write an article on Cochins Bantams, so I will give you a short history of Black Cochins covering a period of the past twenty-five years, as I know them.

The Cochin (bantam) is a dwarf of the Cochin Family, and fits the Standard of Perfection in a general way in all but weight and hock plumage. You can look back over a period of twenty-five years and my Black Cochin Hen of 1912 was the talk of Breeders and Judges. She was of standard weight, low without any sense of being a creeper, massive in her "diminutiveness," good width, very deep and a nice rise to cushion and a good beetle-green sheen. Following this hen, the male in the first pen at the World's Fair in San Francisco shown by W. F. Caskey, was my first recollection of a near perfect Cochin male. He was near standard weight, broad, low, deep, and wide and of excellent color. Then in 1917 W. F. Caskey showed a Black Cochin Cockerel that outside of comb being a little rough was bird of the hour. The same year several individuals came in with outstanding individuals. A lot of them had been breeding good ones, but the super bird appeared or at least it seemed so. Wege, Wilson, Mummert, Ockers & Maasch, Oliver, McKinney, Knox, McGuire and several others set down wonderful and it was a real battle then to about 1925 and we have Herster, Gale and Moyer, getting up in the ribbons against the best and also the birds were getting far more uniform. The "Toy" was being discarded by the majority as they were beginning to find they could not reproduce and they were not carrying the desired feather quality that was being recognized on the Standard Cochin. About 1926 and 1927 Rector and Browne began to be prominent in Black Cochins and were a fine addition to the fancy.

Then at Milwaukee in 1930 Caskey won Grand Champion Pullet of the show on an outstanding pullet. A star in a great class. Then in 1931, Caskey again won Best Bird in the Chicago Show on a cockerel that I have never seen his equal and a year later at Chicago Granger set down an almost model Cochin in first Cockerel. Nice, active, alert, well finished and well proportioned bird - a masterpiece in the flesh.

I never get tired of looking at the Grand Champion at Boston in 1932, a Black Cochin Hen shown by Walter H. Brown. A most near perfect model of Miniature Cochin.

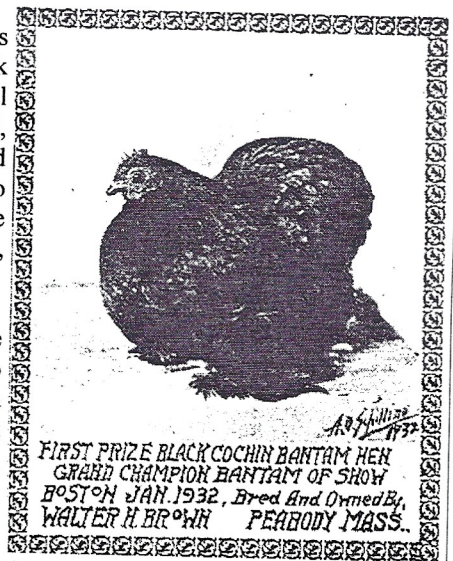

Again 1934, Caskey again clicked with a top notch Black Hen winning Best Bantam at the Big Cleveland All Bantam Show. She was a grand bird in every respect but a poor comb.

I hope you enjoy reading this summary of the Black Cochins, as I know them over a period of the past twenty-five years. Only a few of the breeders are breeding them today that were tops twenty-five years ago. I can sincerely say that I am grateful for the small part I have played and God Bless the one that invented the Bantams.

1937 ABA Yearbook Editor's Note: It is mighty good to have this summary of Black Cochins by the Dean of Cochin Judges. Well do I remember many of the birds mentioned, and how I wished my White Cochins measured up to them. Judge Krum has judged hundred, yes thousands, of Cochins and I venture to say that, with the exception of color, he could judge a class for ideal type and feather while blindfolded. If you are interested in Cochins and never gone over a class with Judge Krum, you have missed a Cochin thrill you will never forget.

CI Editor's Note: I included this article for a couple reasons. I was intrigued by Judge Krum's use of the adjectives and descriptors for the birds mentioned. This was a man who took judging very seriously and genuinely loved judging Cochins. He could remember a specific bird for 25 years! That is impressive just by itself. Additionally, I got a kick out of seeing some of those famous breeders names in print. I can recall conversations with George Schroeder (Prompton, PA), famous in his own right, where he mentioned Mr. Caskey and Mr. Herster, quite fondly! That had to have been a fun time to be on the show circuit! -TER

Please note: The awards for the 2000 Western National are on their way, as well as any District Meet Certificates I haven't had a chance to send out. Both of these items have been delayed by the fact that I was out of the country. Likewise, if you are supposed to have an award coming your way, and you haven't received it, please feel free to drop me a note or give me a call and we'll figure it out. Thanks for your patience!!!! - Tom

"PULLEtzer" Prize Winning Recipes

Kathleen Roebuck, of Wallkill, NY, suggested we start a favorite recipes section in the newsletter. I thought it was a pretty good idea. Everybody likes food, especially if it's homemade! So here is what we came up with. Kathleen has volunteered to be the "PULLEtzer" prize recipe coordinator, so what we would like is for all of you out there who are galloping gourmets in your own right or have a wife or husband who is, to send in your favorite recipes for inclusion in the newsletter. I plan to list at least one recipe per newsletter or two if space permits. What I envision, is that somewhere down the line we can compile them all into a Cochins International cookbook of homemade favorites and get them published at a nominal price, for a possible fund raiser for the club. The first recipe is one of Kathleen's specialties. These recipes do not need to be anything especially fancy, though they do need to be originals. Either your own, or something passed down through generations, with as much detail as necessary to explain how the ingredients should go together.

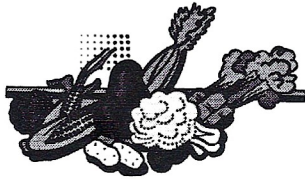

Send all of your "PULLEtzer" prize entries to Kathleen at the following address:

Kathleen Roebuck
1796 Albany Post Rd.
Wallkill, NY 12589
(845) 895-2844

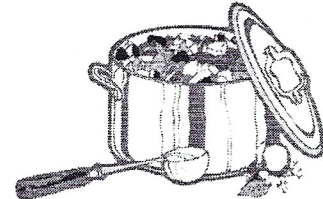

or email them to her at sunriseban@aol.com

Send those recipes in. You could be the next "PULLEtzer" Prize winning recipe awardee. Additionally, if you have any feedback or comments on the recipes, we would like to hear about that as well.

Tasty Chicken & Dumplings

Approx. 4 servings

Kathleen Roebuck

This is an easy recipe my family has always enjoyed. I like to start preparing it in the morning and do the final preparations about an hour before dinner.

Ingredients:

1 whole chicken (cut-up)
1 medium onion
1 stalk celery cut in half
1 tbs. Parsley
1 tsp. Thyme
1 bay leaf
1 chicken bullion cube (Knorr)

Dumplings:

Biscuit mix
1/4 tsp. Parsley
1/8 tsp. Black pepper
pinch of powdered thyme

In a large pot place the cut-up chicken, onion, celery, parsley, thyme and bay leaf. Cover completely with water. Bring to a gentle boil and cook until chicken is tender (approx. 1 1/2 hrs.) Remove cooked chicken from broth, cover and place in refrigerator. Remove the celery, onion and bay leaf. Discard. Pour the broth through a fine sieve into a clean bowl. Store in the refrigerator for several hours until fat has solidified and can be skimmed off.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Begin 40-45 minutes before dinner time.

Place the chicken parts in a small roasting pan. Season to taste. Bake at 350 until completely heated through. Meanwhile, after removing the fat, transfer the broth to a wide cooking pot. Bring to a gentle boil. Add bullion cube. Simmer gently.

Prepare dumplings according to directions on the box. To the mix add the parsley, black pepper and powdered thyme. Add by the teaspoon full to the hot broth. Cook covered on low heat for 15 minutes. Remove lid. Serve with the roasted chicken. Ladle the hot creamy broth over the chicken and dumplings. Garnish with parsley.

As I See It

By Tom Roebuck Jr.

Larry Merritt wrote an article in the March Poultry Press expressing his viewpoints on Cochins and their fall from glory as one of the more popular breeds. All are entitled to their opinions and I agree with some of Larry's points. However, I think there is a lot more than the reasons he offered to explain the Cochins' supposed decline in popularity. Let's think back 10 or eleven years to what significant events occurred in regards to Cochins that may have had an effect. That is about the time of the disbandment of the U.S. Cochin Bantam Club and the end of the World Cochin Family. This would dishearten any breed club member. Couple with this the increasing gas prices over the years, entry fee increases and as Larry pointed out the extra effort Feather legged/Asiatic breeds require to prepare for a show and I think you have a good recipe for a loss of interest in Cochins.

However, those are not the only reasons. In this paragraph I am talking primarily Bantams, but my overall point applies to Large Cochins as well. I have had several discussions with breeders concerning Cochin characteristics in recent months. Some of which I pointed out in the last newsletter. Eye color, and under color are two them. Another is station. Station, is the way that the individual bird carries himself or herself. Cochins are required to be up off the ground with the males showing some daylight between their undercarriage and the ground. Those birds that hug the ground and are too short legged are referred to as "creepers." Two additional points that Larry Merritt pointed out were poor wing carriage and narrow feathering/stringy feathers over the cushion. Put all of these together, poor eye color, poor under color, creepers, poor wing carriage, poor feather quality, and there are two common denominators. First, breeding, second, judging.

It is the responsibility of Breeders, no matter what breed they raise, to strive to achieve the breed characteristics as described in either the Standard of Perfection or the Bantam Standard. For many years of late, where Cochin bantams are concerned, some breeders were going with the philosophy that bigger was better. Showing and winning with enormous Cochin Bantams. Many times, hand in hand with these big bantams were poor wings that were not carried up and tucked away, instead we saw loosely fitting wings that dragged the ground in many cases. A definite detractor from the overall Cochin appearance. The same goes with poor eye color, creepers and poor feather quality. Like begets like, and using breeding stock with defects will only get you more defects. The problem with all of this is that these birds were winning at shows, which is a perfect segue into my second common denominator, judges.

Just as it is the breeders' responsibility to try to adhere to the characteristics in the Standards, it is the judge's responsibility to be the quality control inspector and uphold the words and descriptions in these very same publications. If he or she selects a champion that is too big, then breeders are inclined to shoot for this new standard. If he or she selects a bird that has poor wing carriage, then breeders may not pay as much attention to getting that nice short wing, with the compact carriage Cochins are supposed to have. Why will breeders abandon the descriptions set forth in the standards? Because people like to win. It is not a flaw. It is human nature. It can't be helped. That is one of the things that make us who we are. People like to see the fruits of their labors.

Another factor relating to judging is the tendency, until recently, for judges to refrain from selecting anything other than Black or White Cochins (I am specifically talking Bantams here) as their Best of Breeds or Reserve of Breeds. As they say, type makes the breed and color the variety, but it seemed that a solid color is or was, always a safe bet.

All of these factors, added together, could exasperate veteran breeders and discourage newcomers alike, which I think is exactly what happened in many cases. Why select a breed that takes extra effort to begin with, put in all the effort breeding toward the standard and then have your efforts appear to be in vain, when you finally enter into the show arena?

Luckily, downward trends eventually reverse themselves and begin their way back up. One of the big catalysts for this was the formation of Cochins International in the fall of 1992. There was undoubtedly reluctance by some to join a new Cochin organization, but thankfully many of the founding members are still with us and helped guide the club in the right direction. This guidance kept Cochins International alive and we are almost in our tenth year of existence, looking very strong for the future.

We are seeing a resurgence in the popularity of Cochins, both Large and Bantam, and this involves a growing number of new breeders. Very encouraging indeed. I have witnessed judges in the past 6 months who have had the presence of mind to look beyond black and white and select other varieties for Breed Champion. In each case, these have been duly warranted and excellent examples of the breed. Congratulations to these judges, but more importantly, congratulations to the breeders for striving for the standards of perfection.

It is our duty as a Cochin club to make sure that we continue on the current upward trend. As all of us are Cochin Breeders it is our responsibility to breed toward the standard, not away from it. Take the time to read the descriptions in the respective standards. They paint a very vivid picture of what a Cochin is supposed to look like.

That is "As I See It."

Send checks (made out to Cochins International) along with your ad to me. I will forward your payment to Dennis after I get your ad set up. Business cards will work, but original photos work the best. Any type of graphic is acceptable as well. I can help with the design if necessary. The clearer the photos the better.

Advertising does pay! Or at least it will offset your feed bill!

For those of you who have ads in this newsletter, please note the dates in the lower right hand corners (or as near to that area as I could get it). This is the date of the last issue that your ad will appear in. I will send all of those that run out with this issue a post card reminder, but keep in mind that the next newsletter is due out in the June/July timeframe, and that is right around the corner.
